About us as a school

How to face the education of the future today

I have had the pleasure of attending the second World Education Congress held in Santiago de Compostela, during this vacation. I had the privilege of presenting the research I am carrying out on the Pedagogical Contributions of Homeschooling when applied to a traditional school environment. In addition to exchanging experiences in education with other teachers, I enjoyed participating in the many seminars on various current issues in the world of education. Topics addressed included: How to face the education of the future today, the challenges and difficulties of working with young people and how to be a good teacher. I can summarize the general topics in three points:

Firstly, school helps to discover the individual talents of each student. Each child is gifted in a particular area. We must help children in developing their skills and encourage those who enjoy succeeding. It is been said that success is dedicating your life to pursuing your talents as well as what you like through your work and profession.

Concerning topics that have been discussed in different seminars are the dangers that of misusing of social networks, cyberbullying, sexual harassment on the Internet, online gambling, misusing of video games, (spending too many hours playing, as the great majority of the videogames show excessive violence), consuming pornography every day in younger ages, promiscuity, adolescents using Viagra, unwanted pregnancies, rape, consuming toxic substances such as tobacco, drugs, alcohol, stress pills... These are complicated issues that surprise experts considering that statistics are increasing year after year as ages of exposure decrease. Parents must educate and discipline their children no matter how well behaved they are because all of these dangers exist.

Finally, I would emphasize that most of the speakers required teachers to love their pupils and have passion for their work. Being a teacher implies a total dedication to students; More than a job this is a lifestyle. Children value good teachers. They are very influential for students and when a child feels treated with love and respect, their learning improves. It is easier to learn and develop our abilities in an environment where we feel loved, capable and respected.

Be aware parents and teachers, times are not easy for our children.

MY EXPERIENCE IN THIS SCHOOL

International rural school

By Andrea Asensio de Martorell

INTRODUCTION

I have studied in 3 schools, the first school I studied at was called Escola Argentona. Then Escola Argentona I studied from p3 to the 1st term of Year 5, because then that school I felt bullied. One day my dad found me crying in the playground and he took me out of the school. Second, I finished primary at a school called La Presentació De Vilassar De Mar. Finally, now I study in this school International Rural School.

Now I explain what school is the best for me:

Vilassar de Mar was really fun for me, but International Rural School is the BEST. Because you going to the work experience and it's very interesting. It's a challenge to do everything in English, but I like it!

What have we been up to this month?

Interviewing Alex

By Amara Forcada & Salma Wright.

Alex is the new teacher assistant. In this magazine we will know a bit more about her. We had lots of fun interviewing her, and we hope you enjoy reading about her!

Her full name is Alexandra, she is 26 years old. She is from Auckland, a city in New Zealand.

This is the city of Auckland, in New Zealand. This is where it's situated.

She came to this school because it was the first English school she found online and also because she wanted a new experience.

She had never worked in a school before as a teacher assistant.

She has one little brother. Her parents are still married in New Zealand.

She has a best friend called Anny.

She went to three schools: Primary, secondary and university. In secondary she met Florian who is from Germany.

She met him when she was 16 and he was her first boyfriend.

She likes very much to travel, she went to: US, Australia, Austria, Germany, New Zealand, Greece and Greece, now Spain. Her favorite place is New Zealand, where she was born.

She doesn't like rude people because she hates when somebody thinks that he or they are better than her. She loves nature.

The things she loves most are: walking in nature and she meditating. Her favorite animal is the cat, because they are adorable.

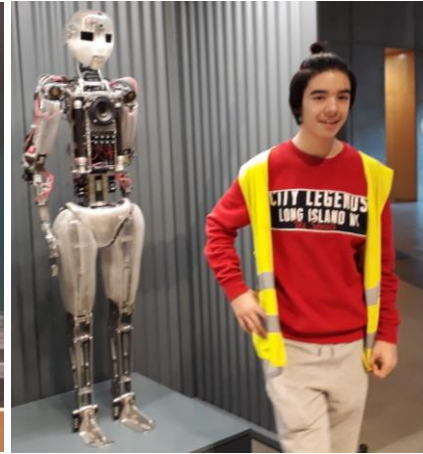

Her favorite colour is purple, because it's a bright, happy colour.

She has never been bullied, but she has seen people being bullied.

When she was 16 she was in the school bus and she saw some kids of 11 years old bullying a Asian girl. They were telling her that she doesn't belong her, go home and other mean things, they were pushing her too.

Because she was older she told them to stop.

Maybe she will like to have a family with kids in the future, but not at the moment. She only speaks English, but she would like to learn Spanish. However, she would also like to speak Te Reo which is a language from New Zealand - not many people know this language!

DOWN SYNDROME

What is Down Syndrome?

By Sara Bellmunt Gras

The name Down Syndrome comes from John Langdon Haydon Down, who was a British doctor in the 1860s. He did some investigations and discovered the characteristics of the syndrome, but not the causes.

Down Syndrome is a genetic disorder, which affects the body, how you speak, socialise, and it also affects mental development. There are different stages and it can range in severity. People who have Down Syndrome die have a lower life expectancy.

Down syndrome is apparent from birth, and there are no cures. There are different therapies available to make life easier:

- A speech therapist can help with speech;
- An occupational therapist can help with organising the home and other activities;
- A physiotherapist can help with motor skills.

There is not a concrete cause but there are some factors of Down syndrome you get the Down Syndrome is from when you were born, there is also more probabilities if a woman is pregnant when she is more than 35 years old. If the family has a history of Down syndrome is also a genetic factor. Down Syndrome is a problem of not enough chromosomes.

People with Down Syndrome can have also good things, for example they may be able to play instruments really well. There is Nobuyuki Tsujii who has Down syndrome and he is also blind. He plays Campanella, he is 28 years old and he plays better than the composer Franz Liszt. There is also more people that can play who have Down syndrome. People with Down Syndrome are special, we have to give them a chance of living and they should be treated with respect and as equals.

This is Nobuyuki Tsujii, who plays Campanella.

Early Years Classroom

We Are Story Writers

The Early Years class have been learning about different traditional tales in Topic Time. We have explored Goldilocks and the Three Bears, Red Riding Hood and we are currently working on The Gingerbread Man.

We recently did an activity in which we could create our own stories from our imaginations. Each story interesting, unique and colourful. The children made illustrations and then told us their stories, which have been written below each picture. Please enjoy!

Women's rights through history

The wish to be treated equally, it's just fair, isn't it?
Written by Judit Bellmunt Gras

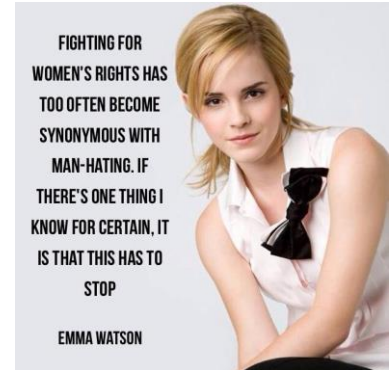

A few centuries ago, the world was ruled by strength wars and conflict. Men are physically stronger, so it all started there. Men took control of the world. Woman didn't have rights, they had to stay home in charge of the kids, they had to cook. Why? Is it because they were better at cooking? The thing is some of the biggest chefs in the world are men, so? Were they better with children? Once again, we could say some of the biggest educators and teachers are men. Was that only for the men's confort?

Woman were even considered witches at some point in history. In general history is all about men, one example would be the language. The first wave of feminism came about during the 19th and early 20th centuries. Women wanted the same opportunities as men, most notably - the right to vote. That the women's suffrage movement was born. After a few years woman gained the right to vote. It was in 1848, where there was a declaration called for the right to vote, equal education rights and treatment under the law. Although it wasn't till 1920 women were able to vote, though, unluckily only white women could vote then.

Then on the 19th century the blossoming of higher education for women really started to accelerate around the world. In 1873, for instance, Emily Davies and Barbara Bodichon founded Girton College at Cambridge, an all-female college. Woman started to protest against the government's decision to forgive woman from going to school.

Moving to the present day, woman have lots more rights, the fight for equality is all but over, as women still are fighting for the same freedoms as men. 44% of today's population still think women shouldn't have rights, including women themselves. 44% This is totally ridiculous! We are in the 21th century!

Sleeper cars

Are Sleeper cars useful?

By Eric Olea

Sleeper cars are cars that are modified to have a high performance on the road. For example, a car that is middle class costs about $5,000 on the body and $30,000 in engine of cars.

Normally the people that have Sleeper cars know about cars like mechanicals some Sleeper cars can win cars from high class in straight line racing.

The left one is a supercar and the right one is a sleeper car

The Sleeper cars are not elegant They're a little rude like this one.

These cars are more useful for races you can't go to a elegant restaurant with those cars because they call the attention.

All cars can be sleepers if you modify them no matter what brand it is. Sleeper cars are usually used for racing or having fun but also some of them looks like a normal car.

Types of sleeper cars
There are

Eye - catching sleepers and

These one that is just a car that has modified the Engine
